

Business owners sometimes find it difficult to access funding for their businesses, whether they are exploring funding options to:

Start their businesses

Help with working capital

Invest in capital assets

This difficulty has been exacerbated in these challenging economic times.

Anchor has established relationships with both National and Community Banks and Community Development Financial Institutions such as SEEDCO, CAMBA and Project Enterprise and other alternative funding agencies providing services such as loans against credit card sales and factoring. Additionally, for the companies that are interested in equity financing, we have developed relationships with a number of angel investors, venture capitalists and private equity professionals to help you increase your chances of getting a loan or funding.
